Art Licks <http://www.artlicks.com> Quarterly, is about looking beyond the commercial and the mainstream at what emerging artists, curators, writers and gallerists are doing and thinking.

The magazine is written by the individuals behind these initiatives; providing a personal perspective on their work, a platform for discussion and giving the reader an insight in to the emerging arts scene. For each issue of the magazine, Art Licks also commissions an artist to make a new piece of work, for the feature, Artist Commission.

October Magazine <http://www.mitpressjournals.org/loi/octo> For most people October is a month. For art world types it's a secular bible. October, founded in New York in 1976, is the journal that, depending on your point of view, is the voice of radical critique or the delusional product of an inward-looking clique. Unbelievers have even named a syndrome after it: Octoberism.

Soapbox Press: Art Publishing Company A platform for the creative voice.

Started in 2012, this independent publishing company was formed by three graduates of Winchester School of Art, UK. As they state in their mission statement, 'during [their] studies they found that the focus of art and design was generally on practical design and the final product, but what [they] really valued was the thought process behind their work. Thus Soapbox Press provides the platform for the creative voice.'

The team includes Emily Cotton, Nicola Manuel, Piero Regnante and Hannah Astill.

Stocked in 'Brick Lane Bookshop' and 'P & G Wells Ltd' among other bookshops. Between publications of their books and journals, their website offers a rich and engaging selection of articles, covering topics ranging from the practical to the witty and amusing. With book reviews and interviews as well, it is certainly well worth visiting their site often to stay up to date with conceptual and intelligent reads about a variety of topics. With such captivating titles of articles such as 'WILL THE PHYSICALITY OF THE BOOK REMAIN IN OUR SOCIETY?' and 'HOW TO FIND MOTIVATION AND LOSE PROCRASTINATION. Always seeking contributions, they welcome submissions on a rolling basis, so if you enjoy writing about art, drop them a line with your ideas! You can find the website at <http://www.soapboxpress.co.uk/>

‘EatSleepDraw’: Submit your art. <http://eatsleepdraw.com> is THE place to submit!

Submitting work is quick and simple too, but what makes this site unique is that they publish art about once every hour, 24 hours a day, Everyday. The largest user submitted blog on Tumblr means if your work gets selected, you will reach a wide audience!

They ask that all the drawings, doodles, paintings, and sketches submitted be 100% made by you. All posts will be approved before being live on the site.

SOME FACTS:

eatsleepdraw receives about one thousand submissions every week. They have 5 moderators, with totally different tastes in art, approving people’s artwork. Approved artwork is sent to the queue for auto posting. Approximately every 60 minutes a new piece of art is automatically posted to the top of the website. Approved artwork might take between 20-30 days to be posted on the site. So please be patient :)

Industry Specific /Specialty--accept art submissions--Outdoors, Nature, Fantasy, Music etc

Bicycle Times magazine, online at: www.bicycletimesmag.com Accept art, photos, cartoons, scribbles, collage, etc. All are welcome. The decision to use a piece of art or photography could take one week or it could take years. Bicycle Times assumes all art and photography submitted is designated for use in the magazine. We reserve the right to reprint art on the web and in promotions and advertisements for Bicycle Times. If you have specific payment requirements contact the Art Director BEFORE submitting any work. Payment typically ranges from $25 to $100. Accept and use both color artwork and photography. We pay $300 for cover art used. . We like photos that are out of the ordinary. They need not accompany an article. We'll give you a nice credit line, and a decent layout. We accept black and white or color prints up to 8x10. Slides are also accepted. Please see the Electronic Submission Guidelines section for digital materials information.
